Orbital welding systems allow for a near identical weld every time. The automatic machine can perform welds better than by hand as it can move around the work piece easier, thus allowing for better quality welds. Unlike many heat guns, this unit has an LCD display that allows its user to see the temperature setting in a glance. We like that the heat settings can be adjusted in 50-degree increments within the 150°F to 1100°F range, a feature that allows for more customization for the job.
